Earth Day – Broome Climate Change talks with Al Gore trained presenters

In recognition of Earth Day, Environs Kimberley is hosting an information session on Climate Change, presented by Erica Spry and Karla McKenzie, both trained by Al Gore.

Environs Kimberley Events Coordinator Christine Elsasser said, 'Climate Change is a serious concern for most people, creating feelings of uncertainty. I'm thrilled that we have two Climate Change presenters here in Broome, willing to provide some good information about the potential impacts.'

Erica and Karla did their training with Al Gore in 2007 and have since then worked tirelessly to inform the public about the devastating effects Climate Change might have.

Erica is active in the Kimberley regional Climate Change project. 'I plan to speak to ten remote Indigenous Traditional Owner groups, talk about climate change and ask them for their observations about the effects of climate change on country,' Erica said.

Karla first took an interest in the environment and the effects of climate change because of her children. 'I wanted my kids to have a future in a healthy environment,' she said. Since she completed her training, Karla has spread the message in Western Australia and Queensland.

The session will be held on 22nd April 09, 5.30pm-6.30pm at Notre Dame University, Room L11.
